Senior leader underpins impact of expeditionary OIB

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. – Leaders across the Army’s Organic Industrial Base are setting the course for the future while providing readiness for today’s joint warfighter. That was a key message from Army sustainment leaders during the bi-annual OIB Commander’s Summit at Redstone Arsenal, Aug. 20-21, which highlighted changes coming to the 23 depots, arsenals and ammunition plants. “The OIB is incredibly important for the defense of this nation,” said Lt. Gen. Chris Mohan, Army Materiel Command deputy commanding general and acting commander.

Annual FIP process identifies infrastructure priorities

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. – The Army officially kicked off its annual Facility Investment Plan process last month during a virtual meeting with senior leaders and stakeholders from many of the service’s commands. The meeting established milestones for the Army Materiel Command-led program to continue to meet the service’s facility investment strategy and associated 10-year plan. “We continue to prioritize based on people, readiness and modernization,” said Andrew Williams, FIP program lead for AMC.

ILSC, Tobyhanna collaboration yields gains in microelectronics

TOBYHANNA, Pa. – Communications-Electronics Command’s Integrated Logistics Support Center is involved in support and sustainment areas for the warfighter and recognizes the need to work closely with other facilities and organizations whose subject matter experts can shape solutions and drive results. In this realm, the ILSC’s collaborations with the Tobyhanna Army Depot have been vital to the Army’s sustainment for many years, and their latest partnership in the field of microelectronics is proving to be one of their most fruitful joint ventures yet.

Fort Gregg-Adams mourns death of namesake

FORT GREGG-ADAMS, Va. – The Fort Gregg-Adams and Army sustainment communities are mourning the loss of an inspiring leader for whom the installation was named a little over a year ago. Retired Lt. Gen. Arthur J. Gregg died Aug. 22 at age 96. “The entire Fort Gregg-Adams family is deeply saddened by the loss of a great American and our namesake,” said Maj. Gen. Michelle Donahue, commanding general of Combined Arms Support Command and Fort Gregg-Adams senior commander.

AMLC supports rapid deployment exercise in Korea

CAMP CARROLL, South Korea – U.S. Army Medical Logistics Command supported an Eighth Army deployment readiness exercise, supplying medical sets and equipment to a unit participating in Operation Pacific Fortitude. Soldiers from the 1st Armored Division drew equipment, including six armored vehicles, from Army Prepositioned Stocks in Korea. AMLC’s Support Operations team and U.S. Army Medical Materiel Agency issued seven medical sets aligned with the vehicles pulled from APS storage in support of the exercise.
