Why is Army Medicine transitioning to

- MHS is implementing the 2017 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA).
- Improving integration of services (Navy, Air Force and Army) within the MHS to strengthen readiness and our support to the combatant forces.
- Enhances standardization & consistency across services
- Increases efficiency by eliminating duplication – reducing costs, less overhead costs, improve readiness & high quality patient care
- More integrated, more efficient & effective Military Health System

UNCLASSIFIED

Will patient support change?

- BACH will transition to the DHA authority on Oct. 1, 2019 (as well as all other stateside military medical treatment facilities transition)
- On Oct. 1, 2019, nothing is going to change for BACH patients
- This is going to be a seamless process for patients
- Administratively, our team will work through changes in reporting and leadership authority, but our mission remains the same
- Our mission remains:
 - Support the warfighter
 - Care for our warfighters' Families
 - Care for the patient

UNCLASSIFIED

What will MHS look like?

- The Military Health System

A global organization with medical readiness at the center of the mission

- 54 hospitals world-wide
- 9.4 million covered lives
- 60% of care is purchased from civilian network
- An education and training system that includes an accredited medical school and graduate programs, graduate medical education, enlisted and officer medical training platforms
- Approximately $1B in medical research and development

UNCLASSIFIED

- FY2017 National Defense Authorization Act

Congress determined that a single agency instead of three separate health systems run by the Services would:

- improve and sustain medical force readiness
- improve beneficiaries' access to care
- improve health outcomes, and
- lower costs across the MHS

That single agency is the Defense Health Agency or DHA
