MWR Participates in Post Wide Extremism Training

Fort Campbell held a post-wide combat extremism training on Thursday, 25 March. The live stream training was hosted at Wilson Theater by Col Jeremy D. Bell. Civilian employees watched live from locations all over the installation using a shared MS Teams link. Col Bell provided all Garrison employees with the training on how to understand and be aware of extremism.

MWR employees watched in small, COVID safe, locations at our different facilities. Many of our Business Operations employees gathered with civilian employees from other garrison directorates at Cole Park. The Community Recreation Division was found at various locations, gathered around computers and speakers in manager's offices and break rooms. The NAF Support team viewed the training from computers in each department's office area.

Some CYS employees were able to watch as a group in their centers while others gathered at Taylor Youth Center. Several sessions were held at TYC throughout the day.

After the informative training, the groups discussed the topic and shared their thoughts. Meaningful discussions were had about the training. This led to healthy conversations about the topics at hand.

Employees that were not able to watch live were provided YouTube links, MS Teams links, and DVD recordings of the training. With these resources, we were able to have our entire team trained by close of business on Friday, 26 March.

Three MWR Employees Graduate from Leadership Fort Campbell

Leadership Fort Campbell 2.0 students celebrated their graduation 19 March at Wilson Theater. Three MWR employees took part in this year's professional development program, which was spread out over a three month period.

The MWR participants included Bernetta "Shay" Prather, Tammie Coleman, and Diana Pierce. They worked alongside employees from every directorate, as a team, to learn and employ Army Design Methodology. They used this to find solutions to aid Fort Campbell MWR in an attempt to adapt new service approaches for the year 2025 as Generation Z is poised to become our largest demographic on post.

The program culminated with a presentation of their findings to the Garrison Commander Col Jeremy D. Bell, Deputy Garrison Commander Jonathan Hunter, and directorate leaders from across the installation on 18 March.

In addition, this year's class had a unique opportunity to brief Lt. Gen. Douglas Gabram, commanding general of U.S. Army Installation Management Command, 5 March at the Garrison Learning Center.

We are proud to have these employees represent Fort Campbell MWR as they participated in important discussions about the future of our organization. The next time you see them, be sure to congratulate them on a job well done.

Goodbyes are never easy!

This March we said goodbye to two loyal Fort Campbell MWR Employees.

Rich Corbin retired on 16 March after an exceptional 7 year career with BOD. He worked at a variety of MWR restaurants where his culinary skills improved the flavors and service of each program under his supervision.

Tony Rescueman retired after 20 years with MWR and 23 years in the Air Force. His time with Sports, Fitness and Aquatics culminated as Facility Manager for the newly remodeled Olive PFC. He's a consummate leader and a team player.

SPOTLIGHT

A Shining Light Behind the Scenes

Although Leisure Travel Services isn't exactly behind the scenes, many of our employees don't get a chance to meet this dedicated staff.

Meet Mignon Wood and Carolyn Kenney. As any Soldier or Spouse can tell you, they are the ones that can help with the Disney tickets, but they do so much more! They are experts at military discounts and they help coordinate trips and vacations for thousands of Fort Campbell Families and individuals every year. They have already exceeded expectations for 2021 and they do it all with a smile and great customer service.
