Homebase Childcare Business Opportunity

By: Christina Comer, Employment Readiness Program Specialist

What a wonderful time to consider starting your own business.

Families are seeking full-time and/or hourly care for children aged six weeks to five years old. As Fort Campbell's childcare wait-list continues to grow, the call to open a homebase childcare seems to be getting louder.

Homebase Childcare is the perfect opportunity to not only be your own boss but to provide a flexible schedule that works for you and the families you would serve. Flexibility may come in different ways: Full Time, Part time or Hourly care. Starting a homebase childcare means balancing the joy of watching children grow with the excitement of running a business. When it boils down to it, it's really about relationships not only with the children, but also with the parents and the rest of the families.

Soldiers and Families can be assured that their children are learning age-appropriate skills in a safe environment; and Soldiers can focus on their mission. Providing childcare contributes to readiness for Army Families.

What are the Potential Benefits of Starting a Childcare Business?

- Be your own Boss
- Opportunity for Self -employment and earn income while remaining at home with your child
- Satisfaction of contributing to early childhood development

The benefits are always great to hear. To learn more about the financial cost and resources available come join us on May 7th with the Employment Readiness Program located at 5662 Screaming Eagle Blvd. Employment Readiness Program hosts an information session for military spouses and other family members, retirees, and veterans to hear from the subject matter experts: Family Child Care, Tennessee Department of Human Services and Kentucky Division of Regulated Childcare. They will educate us with the current childcare start up information and the funding opportunities which exist.

So, if you're considering entering the world of childcare entrepreneurship, know this: it's not just a business — it's a calling. It's about making a difference in the lives of children and their families, all while running an operation with creativity and care. For more information, give us a call at 270-412-1720.

Military Spouse Appreciation Day

By: Kristen Geist-Hodgkins, Army Volunteer Coordinator

While it has been 41 years since Military Spouse Appreciation Day was initiated by President Ronald Reagan, it has been since the early days of the Continental Army that military spouses have selflessly contributed to the spirit and well-being of our servicemembers and to the general welfare of their military communities. Military Spouses have made countless personal sacrifices, from enduring long periods of separation and leaving familiar surroundings and friends, to forgoing personal and professional aspirations.

Military spouses have been the unsung heroes of history, providing strength, resilience, and steadfast loyalty and support to service members since the earliest days of the American military, with their contributions extending far beyond the home - many have taken on leadership roles, volunteered within their communities, and advocated for military families.

From the long separations to managing household responsibilities and supporting fellow military families, their sacrifices deserve recognition and appreciation. Military Spouse Appreciation Day is a small but important way to honor their dedication and commitment.

The Friday before Mother's Day has been designated as Military Spouse Appreciation Day. This year that special day of observance is May 9, 2025. A day of significance because it recognizes the sacrifices, resilience, and unwavering support that military spouses provide to their loved ones in uniform. While service members face the challenges of deployment, relocation, and duty, their spouses serve in their own way—holding families together, navigating frequent moves, and providing emotional strength during times of uncertainty.

- Honors their sacrifices—many military spouses put their own careers, ambitions, and stability on hold to support their families.
- Acknowledges emotional resilience—dealing with long separations and the challenges of military life requires strength and adaptability.
- Fosters appreciation & support—by recognizing their efforts, communities can uplift and provide resources for military spouses.
- Strengthens military families—appreciation strengthens the bond between service members and their spouses, reinforcing the vital role family plays in their well-being.

ACS is excited to once again offer our own Military Spouse Appreciation Day on 9 May 2025, 10:30am-1:30pm, at 1501 William C. Lee Road. We, along with several sponsors and partners, look forward to not only celebrating our Fort Campbell Military Spouses, but also bringing attention to their dedication and service and let them know they are valued!!
